

BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

throughout the delegations and in a short time men were in the states of Washington, Wyoming, Montana and South Dakota, but their number was much less than that which had risen to the name of Stevenson.

While the galleries were enthusing over Mr. Towne, there was an excited little group about the chair of ex-Senator Hill. In it was Croker.

"You must take the nomination and save the day," said Edward Murphy, excitedly.

"I cannot, I cannot," replied Hill, his face white and set. "I do not want it."

"You must take it," said Croker.

Croker, leaning over him, while Norman E. Mack and Frank Campbell held Hill, one on each side, and urged him to accept. An excited man from New Jersey, shaking his finger under Mr. Hill's nose, shouted: "You can't refuse, you can't. The party must have you to save the east."

"I don't want it. You can name Stevenson. He's as good as I am," said Hill, and then turning to Murphy and Croker, and gripping his hands, he said:

Hill Begs for Mercy.

"Please don't force this, please don't," Mr. Murphy then gave an indication of a prearranged scheme to nominate by saying to the excited Jersey man: "You keep quiet and it will be all right. We have it fixed."

Meanwhile the confusion continued to be so great in the hall, that even after Chairman Richardson had recognized Governor Thomas, of Colorado, to second the nomination of Mr. Towne, not a word of his speech could be heard by either the delegates or the people in the galleries.

When Georgia was called, Mr. Hutchinson, of that state, who spoke briefly and clearly, delivered a short speech in seconding the nomination of Stevenson, from Illinois.

James Kennedy, of Connecticut, had yielded to Illinois, in the roll call and received a like favor from that state when his name was called and James Kennedy, chairman of the state delegation, made a short seconding speech for Stevenson, of Illinois.

When Idaho was called she gave way to Washington, and W. H. Dumphy placed in nomination the name of James Hamilton Lewis, of Washington. The name of Mr. Lewis was received with but few cheers and they lasted only a few moments.

Indiana gives way to Virginia. Indiana gave way to Virginia, and Congressman William A. Jones, of the latter state, seconded the nomination of Stevenson.

Iowa seconded the nomination of Stevenson from the floor. Chairman Sells, of that delegation, contenting himself with the simple announcement. Kansas did not respond and at the call of Kentucky, there were cries of "Blackburn," but the senator did not respond, and ex-Governor McCrory, of Kentucky, came forward and seconded the nomination of Stevenson, of Illinois, whom he claimed as a son of Kentucky, having been born in that state.

Delegate E. H. McCaleb, of Louisiana, when that state was called, announced from his seat that the delegation from Louisiana unanimously seconded the nomination of "that gifted leader and statesman," David B. Hill, of New York.

Again the name of Hill aroused the convention to cheering and applause.

Delegate A. Leo Knott, of Maryland, formerly an assistant postmaster general, presented in a brief speech the name of Governor John Walter Smith, of Maryland.

George Fred Does Some Talking.

When the state of Massachusetts was called, Hon. George Fred Williams ascended the platform amid considerable applause. In the course of his address, which was delivered in clear tones, carrying to the uttermost parts of the hall, he paid a handsome compliment to the state of New York, which he declared was untitled in favor of the platform and they of this convention. For this reason no state in the Union was entitled to greater consideration than New York. This was received with a shout of approval, the belief becoming in some manner prevalent that Mr. Williams was about to second Hill's nomination.

"The name which seemed most desirable in the interests of the party," Mr. Williams declared, "in connection with the vice presidential nomination, is that of a man who intellectually and morally is the peer of the candidates for the first place, Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota."

Cordial applause was given Mr. Towne's name, but it was tempered by such remarks from among the delegates as: "We want a Democrat," "this is not a Populist convention," and other expressions that raised in question Mr. Towne's Democracy. In response to these cries, Mr. Williams insisted that Mr. Towne was as much of a Democrat as any man in the convention.

At the conclusion of the speech, both Williams and Towne were heartily cheered.

Briefly Seconded Towne's Nomination Minnesota when called, yielded the floor to Mr. Cummings, of Connecticut, who briefly seconded the nomination of Towne. His speech, as usual with those seconding the nomination of Mr. Towne, was received with much applause from the galleries.

Senator Money, of Mississippi, rose when his state was called, and made his way to the speaker's platform. He declared the ticket should be composed of men both of whom had been Democrats in almost every political affiliation. He therefore seconded the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson.

The audience received Governor Stone, of Missouri, with great enthusiasm, who followed Senator Money, rising to its feet and cheering and waving flags, while the band played "Dixie." When he spoke it was with deliberation and he was given strict attention, particularly by the local audience. His eulogy of Teller and Towne called forth a burst of applause and his sentiment that even if they had been Republicans, their support of silver and Mr. Bryan entitled them to seats in this convention, was the signal for more enthusiasm. His closing remarks according Mr. Stevenson and saying that all who differed in 1900 should be welcome to the party in 1900, if they would come, was applauded.

Nebraska Passed Her Hand.

Nebraska passed in the call for nomination, saying they had nobody to present as a candidate. Nevada had F. G. Newlands present their views. He named Towne as their choice and the minute he mentioned the name there were calls for a vote. The audience was displaying its impatience at the delay.

When New Hampshire was called, Colonel Henry O. Kent made a very short speech in favor of Stevenson.

Delegate Daly, of New Jersey, rose to second the nomination of Hill. He spoke vigorously and his terse speech called forth loud cheers.

Patrick H. McCarren rose in his seat when the roll call reached New York and announced that the Empire state would yield its time to Delaware.

L. Irving Handy, of that state, took the platform and like Mr. Daly, spoke for Hill. He declared that although the senator had declined, a better soldier had never walked beneath the Democratic flag, and when he was nominated he would take it.

The convention was becoming very impatient over the long list of seconding speeches, and there were frequent calls of "time" before he concluded.

Senator White, of California, spoke energetically from the platform, declaring that those who did not desire to hear the nominating speeches could go out. If they did not care to go out they should keep quiet.

North Dakota, from the floor, seconded the nomination of Hill.

S. M. Gattis, of North Carolina, presented the name of Colonel Julian Carr, from his state.

Thrust at Jawn Jay Lentz. Ohio put in nomination the name of A. W. Patrick, of the Buckeye state. His name was presented by M. A. Daugherty, who was one of the few speakers whose seconding speech could be heard at any distance from the platform.

J. W. St. Clair, of West Virginia, appealed to the delegates to vote for the man who would bring the greatest number of votes to the ticket, and that man, he declared, was Stevenson, of Illinois.

G. G. Cooper, of Wisconsin, spoke for Towne. His speech was ably delivered and called forth applause.

Wyoming, from the floor, seconded Stevenson's nomination.

Mayor Rose, of Milwaukee, sprang upon his feet, and announced that despite the address of Mr. Cooper, Wisconsin would cast its vote for Stevenson.

John H. Wise, of Hawaii, from the floor, seconded the nomination of Hill. New Mexico from the floor seconded the nomination of J. Hamilton Lewis, of Washington, whose name had already been presented, was next recognized by the chairman. He expressed his thanks to the states of Washington and Idaho, which had championed his cause and announced his withdrawal from the race.

The roll call of the first ballot then began. The announcement of Alabama that it had nineteen votes for Hill, was received with a roar of applause.

The vote of three leading candidates before any changes were made, were as follows: Stevenson, 59 1/2; Hill, 200; Towne, 112 1/2.

And the Convention Adjourned.

While the changes of the various states were being made pandemonium reigned in the hall. Delegates and alternates stood on their chairs and throughout all of the galleries people were standing and cheering. When order had been partially restored the floor section of the hall bore more the appearance of a miscellaneous gathering than of a political convention. Sergeant-at-arms John I. Martin, his assistants and the police had difficulty in clearing the aisles, but the people were finally forced to their seats or from the building. As soon as quiet was restored, J. Milton Turner, a prominent negro of Missouri, the chairman of the convention of Afro-Americans which only recently nominated Mr. Bryan for President, was invited to the platform and briefly addressed the convention.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks to Kansas City and to the officers of the convention were adopted amid the greater confusion and then at 8:21, on motion of Chairman Jones, the national Democratic convention of 1900, adjourned.

ST. CLAIR'S SPEECH

Endorsing the Candidacy of Adlai E. Stevenson One of the Shortest and Strongest Delivered in the Convention.

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—Following is the speech of Hon. J. W. St. Clair, of West Virginia, endorsing the candidacy of Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, for vice president:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention.—This is peculiarly a time in the deliberations of this body which requires the exercise of calm judgment. You have had presented to you for your consideration for the nomination which you are about to make, the names of a number of distinguished Democrats, all of whom would grace and honor your national ticket. I have no word of criticism to offer against each or any of them, but, gentlemen, you have a party which inaugurated in this country constitutional government. You have a party which has declared in your platform for constitutional government.

Give us an old-time hickory Democrat, who was born in 1840, (applause) standing for constitutional government, the state of Illinois. (Applause.) I love and admire as much as any man the immaculate leader, the Hon. David B. Hill, of New York, the Hon. Charles A. Towne, but let me call your attention to this: Don't put both candidates on this ticket from west of the Mississippi river. If you do you will make a mistake for your party.

Should Stand by the Party. They are all good men, and good Democrats, but I appeal to you as a matter of party politics, without making the slightest sacrifice you should stand for a ticket that will command the largest vote in November. (Applause.) My fellow Democrats, I am not one of those who is taken off his feet by a declaration made in the convention as to what would be done at the polls. Look at the proposition calmly and nominate a ticket that will give you the best assurance of election in the pivotal states. My own state is one of them, and there is no man on this continent who has more of the popular heart of her people than Adlai E. Stevenson. (Applause.) I appeal to you again, don't put both candidates west of the Mississippi river. We have given you people in the west in the shape of a platform all you asked as Democrats. Give to us, the old line of the party, candidates to stand in Democratic districts to maintain a platform which we have given the country at your request.

SILVER REPUBLICANS

May Endorse the Demo-Populist Candidate—Towne Not Named.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—After a long and exciting debate, in which it looked several times as if Charles Towne would be nominated for vice president in spite of his protest against such action, the national convention of the Silver Republican party adjourned sine die without making a nomination, the whole matter being referred to the national committee with power to act.

W. J. Bryan was made the unanimous choice of the convention for president during the morning session, and it was the intention to complete the ticket in the afternoon by the nomination of former Congressman Towne. The action of the Democratic convention, however, in placing Adlai E. Stevenson in nomination, took the delegates off their feet, but most of them asserted their determination to nominate Mr. Towne notwithstanding. For two hours Senator Teller, former Congressman Shafroth, of Colorado, and Cheadle, of Indiana, and others, made speeches in favor of endorsing the Democratic ticket, but was not until Towne himself appeared and appealed to the convention not to nominate him but to concentrate their forces, that the delegates calmed down and the vice presidential nomination was referred to the national committee.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Of the Three Negative Parties Trying to Reach an Agreement.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—A projected meeting of the conference committees of the Democratic, Populist and Silver Republican parties was held at Lyceum hall to-night, at which the vice presidential situation was discussed with a view to bringing about, if possible, an agreement between the three parties. The members of the Democratic committee urged the Populist and Silver Republican representatives to use their influence in uniting their party in support of Bryan and Stevenson.

It was unanimously decided to hold another conference later between the Democratic committee and sub-committees from the Populist and Silver Republicans, the result to be reported to the full committee of the two latter parties for approval.

Old Officials Re-Elected.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—All the officials of the last national committee have been re-elected. Governor Stone, of Missouri, vice chairman; C. A. Walsh, secretary, and John I. Martin, of Missouri, sergeant-at-arms.

Leave It to the Committee.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—By a practically unanimous vote, the Silver Republican national convention referred the vice presidential nomination to the national committee with plenary powers and at 5:22 p. m. the convention adjourned sine die.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
TOLEDO, O., July 6.—Wheeling arrived here just in time to dress for the game and proceeded to do business with Pitcher Ewing at once. Manney led off with a base on balls. Congalton advanced him to second, Lyons hit over the center field fence for a home run.

Turner hit over the fence for two bases. Taylor followed with a two base hit, scoring Turner. Pennington hit for two bases, scoring Taylor. Rothelmer out to center. Ritter scored Pennington with a single. Ritter out at second. The features of the game were the pitching of Skopee and the timely hitting of Wheeling. Toledo made a rally in the ninth and made two runs, but Skopee pitched steady ball.
